Robin Morash is a functional solutions architect with ten plus years of EPM software consulting experience. He also has ten years of Fortune 500 experience as a Senior Business Systems Manager including several software implementations, and five years of OneStream consulting.

Robin has helped implement OneStream for eight clients. Most implementations required SQL data integration and Dashboards. He was the Solutions Architect for two of these clients. Other implementations included long-term system administration support and enhancements. Robin has completed OneStream Level I & II training.

Robin can knowledgeably guide technical teams and sales reps through comprehensive pre-sales support while communicating the technical and business value of applications to prospects and customers. He also trains teams through business case analysis on new functionality.
